

Consular Corps Officials Feted at Harbor Dinner

More than 53 Consular Corps officials, foreign trade representatives in Los Angeles and their wives were feted Saturday night by Mayor Sam Yorty and his official family. Occasion was the Fifth Annual Consular Corps Dinner, held at the Port o'Call restaurant overlooking the Main Channel at the Port of Los Angeles.

In welcoming the group, Yorty stated the "contributions made by the members of the Los Angeles Consular Corps in promoting world commerce through Los Angeles Harbor has been significant." He also praised them for the excellent working relationships they have established with both City and Harbor officials.

As the Korean diplomatic corps official was about to leave the podium, Mayor Yorty stopped him, turned to the audience and said:

"I COULDN'T let the consul general of Korea leave this stand without telling that his country has 45,000 combat soldiers in South Vietnam. That is the third largest contribution to combatant power there with South Vietnam first and the United States second. That 45,000 is in addition to all the service troops there in non-combatant classification such as Red Cross, medical corps, etc. We the certainly proud and grateful to have these people as our allies and friends."

THE MAYOR'S remarks drew thunderous applause from the assemblage of world diplomatic representatives.

Master of ceremonies at the black-tie event was Pietro Di Carlo, Los Angeles Harbor Commission president. Prior to the dinner more than 200 guests enjoyed a sunset boat tour of the Harbor.

Countries represented at the dinner, hosted by the Mayor, Los Angeles City Council and the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners, included:

Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Lebanon, Liberia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand, Uruguay, Iceland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Korea, Latvia, Oman, Republic of Ecuador, El Salvador, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, Israel, Italy, Luxembourg, Malta, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand, Uruguay, Venezuela.

Tips for Halloween Offered

Children who wear dark costumes or ill-fitting masks on Halloween may be exposing themselves needlessly to the danger of accidents, the Automobile Club of Southern California warned today.

When crossing streets, youngsters wearing dark Halloween costumes are especially hard for motorists to see, the Auto Club pointed out. Poorly-fitted masks partially obscure the youngster's vision and make it difficult for him to see oncoming traffic.

The Auto Club urged all parents to put some thought into the selection and preparation of Halloween costumes and made the following suggestions:

- Masks should fit properly so that the child can see well.
- Loose fitting hoods that completely cover the face should be avoided.
- The costume should include some light-colored cloth or, better yet, some strips of reflective material.
- The costume should not be so long that it might trip the child.
- Younger children should be escorted by parents.

El Camino Featured In New Book

El Camino College is featured along with seven other colleges from throughout the nation in a new book, "The College Scene Now: Life, Learning and Ferment on the American Campus Today," published by the National Observer.

Written by Observer staff writer Jerrold Footlick, the publication includes chapters on the eight basic types of higher education in the United States. El Camino represents the community junior college. Others included in the 178-page study are Dartmouth, Fordham, Indiana, Vanderbilt, Wooster, Colorado State College, and Bryn Mawr. El Camino was also featured in a full-page story headlined "El Camino: A Handyman of Higher Education," also written by Footlick in the Oct. 16 issue of the National Observer.
